Stede wakes up on another beautiful morning at the Inn. The birds are chirping, the sun is shining through the hole in the roof, and nothing new has fallen down! He rolls over to cuddle with Ed, but suddenly realizes he isn't there! He sits up to call out for him, but then notices that there are two items on the nightstand that weren't there when they went to sleep. Which one should he pick up?

He unfolds the parchment to discover a treasure map! At the top there's a note from Ed...

Good morning, love! I have a surprise for you, but I need you to pick up a few things along the way! I've left a clue at each spot to tell you where to go next. Hopefully I'll see you soon! You'll find the first clue with our guests from last night.

The colors really do suit him, and the outfit is very similar to the kind of things he used to wear when he and Ed first met. It makes him a little sentimental, but no time to waste! Wee John gives him his next clue and he has to go into town to the new bar Jackie and Swede have set up. Jackie has the next clue for him, but she isn't there yet, so Stede orders a drink while he waits. Does he order...

Roach sends him off to Anne & Mary's new antique shop. They seem happier here than when they lived in the swamp, but Stede has interrupted one of their arguments and now they're dragging him into it! Mary tells him to grab the picnic basket but Anne says to grab the treasure chest. Who does he listen to? Which should he choose?

Phew! Looks like he made the right choice because the picnic basket has a bottle of wine and two cups, as well as a bunch of Stede's favourite flowers! His next clue is in there too, telling him to visit Olu, Jim, Archie and Zheng. When he gets there, Jim and Zheng are in the middle of a sparring session. Who does Stede think will win?

Stede places his bet on Zheng, and after an intense back and forth she emerges victorious! After collecting his winnings from Olu and Archie, he goes to congratulate her. To his surprise she hands him the swords they'd been fighting with, explaining they were a custom, matching pair commissioned by Ed. Along with the swords she hands Stede another note from him: You're almost there! Bring everything to where you told me you loved me for the first time.

"Yes!!!" Stede says as he lunges forward, tackling Ed to the ground. "A thousand times yes! I never want to go on another adventure without you!"

"You never will."

"Even if that adventure is a treasure hunt?"

Ed considers this for a moment and then nods.

"Even if it's a treasure hunt."

Stede kisses him. And then kisses him again. And again. They get lost in each other for a while before sitting up and finally opening their wine and treats from Roach. After making flower crowns and excitedly discussing all of their plans for the wedding, they decide it's time for a bit of sword fighting practice, of course. They shrug off their jackets and shirts, exposing the scars from many of their previous adventures. Stede hoped they wouldn't be collecting any new scars anytime soon, but took comfort from the knowledge that no matter what adventures awaited them, they'd always be by each other's side.
