More Collages for the month of February from our fabulous crew-mate @WanderingNomad on Twitter! Almost caught up!

- Day 7: Nathan Foad
- Day 8: #WeLoveSamson – Samson Kayo
- Day 9: Con fuckin' O'Neill
- Day 24: Stede Bonnet, The Gentleman Pirate
- Day 25: Blackbeard, Ed Teach

February LOVE #OurFlagMeansDeath COLLAGE FEST!

Day 24: Stede Bonnet, The Gentleman Pirate. Boyfriend of Ed Teach. Started out a little shaky with his crew, but eventually earned their respect and trust. ❤️ We need more Stede in our lives. Someone #SaveOFMD and #AdoptOurCrew! ❤️

February LOVE #OurFlagMeansDeath COLLAGE FEST!

Day 25: Blackbeard, Ed Teach. Boyfriend of Stede Bonnet. Lover of lovely letters. Bewitched by Stede instantly...finally figuring out what he wants in life. ❤️ The rest of his story deserves to be told!

February LOVE #OurFlagMeansDeath COLLAGE FEST!

DAY 7: The glorious Nathan Foad! Insanely talented, hilarious, quick-witted. Lucius is my favorite character, we definitely need a Season 3 to see more of him! ❤️

February LOVE #OurFlagMeansDeath COLLAGE FEST!

Day 8: Today is #WeLoveSamson Day! Samson is a beautiful person, inside and out, much like his character, Oluwande. He is the sensible, calm presence of the crew, a break in your day, so to speak. ❤️

== Moonglow Manifesting ==

As many of you know, #MoonglowManifesting came to an end yesterday the 24th with the full moon. I wanted to make sure to highlight some of the incredibly creative altars our crew-mates put together!

SOMETHING WITCHY CONTINUES! »

In the spirit of our beloved Buttons, let's put the moon to work and manifest what we all want: Season 3 of OFMD!

February 24 is the Full Moon!

Find a spot in your home to set up a space for things that make you think about OFMD: fan art, stickers, tea cups, an orange or two, keychains, etc. Add in a little magic: a candle, some salt water, affirmation cards, herbs, crystals, and oils.

If you began your manifesting during the New Moon on Feb 9, now is the time to release your intentions. Bake Samba's cake, write a letter in a bottle, wear a depression robe and read fan fics all day. Channel your inner Buttons if you're so inclined and cast a Moonglow spell!

Post your pics and use the hashtags

I have been adding things over the days since the new moon, lighting my candle and inviting season three into fruition. #MoonglowManifesting has been a return to practice for me and I'm so thankful, in every way to the community around this show. So thankful for the joy here. +

ACE OF HORNS—JOY

Happiness, simplicity, joyous experience. Celebrate the world around you through the flow of positive emotion. There may be complex aspects within or behind this moment—the way the coot uses its wings to keep it at a level where it can run on water—but the experience in the moment is one of exuberance and pleasure. Savor this time. Other cards in the spread may indicate how the current situation came about, or where it is going. But right now, the "responsibility" is to be happy. As an alternative meaning, the beginnings of creativity. Also, a level of skill that makes the seeming impossible look easy.

An American coot literally runs across the surface of a pond. Does the phrase

"old coot" come from this bird, with the assumption that it's too old and weak to fly? If so, the expression indicates a profound misunderstanding of what a coot can do. And chooses to do.

Coots can soar into the air. They can dive into the water. Their greatest thrill, however, seems to come from using their wings just enough to keep themselves on the water's surface as they seemingly run across the pond.

Above the coot, a horn from a bighorn sheep brims with water, while spouts pour out onto the surface. A bluebird perches on the horn, adding its own joyous song to the flow of happiness.

Many native cultures—for example, the Cherokee, Ojibwa, and Kawaiisu—describe the coot as a creative power. After the great flood covered the surface of the Earth, the coot was the only creature who could dive down deep enough to reach the submerged world. She brought back a simple speck of mud—enough to remake the world.

== Love Notes ==

Hey lovelies. Do you ever do/say something and then not long after you start feeling massively anxious about whether or not you should have done it? I know I do.

This is especially hard on the internet now a days because tone and sarcasm is so difficult to express and understand.

Just know that it's okay to feel anxious. When we don't get feedback at all (which happens a lot on the internet), or the feedback we expect, our brains can make us feel like something's worse than it might be. If you can help it, don't borrow that anxiety before you know it's an issue (I know it's hard, believe me).

Remember to take a deep breathe, drink some water, and remember even if it didn't turn out the way you expected, you're allowed to make mistakes, and you're allowed to have opinions on things. Just be sure to respect others' opinions and safe space as well.

If you're worried about something in particular, reach out to your crew and ask! We're still a safe space ship here, and we love to talk it through as you all know.

You're doing great, remember to give yourself some credit too.

Hope you have a great start to the week lovelies, we'll see you tomorrow.
