Hey friends, things are slowly progressing on things with my dad and his surgery recovery. Each day things get a little better but it's gonna be a really long road to recovery. Hopefully we're out of the worst of it. I'm still gonna try to keep up with recap stuff as best I can, but they'll probably still be late because of the uncertainty of timing right now. Thank you all so much for all the kind words and well wishes and all the patience. I hope you're staying well <3

FANTASY

GAME OF THRONES

In Beyond the Throne, Game of Thrones' Hodor gets raw and personal

Kristian Nairn talks to Polygon about his drag career, his fame, and why he loved the end of Game of Thrones

There are a lot of Game of Thrones highlights, from Nairn's impromptu backyard audition ("Without doubt, it is the most random shit I've ever done") to his physically and emotionally painful nude scene ("Holy God, look at the size of it!") to Hodor's dramatic final scene. But the real draw of Beyond the Throne is Nairn's sense of humor, and watching him slowly find his own identity.

I had to buy a suitcase at the last convention because of all the gifts we were all given — really thoughtful, amazing stuff people have crafted. People have put their heart and soul into it, spent real cash on it. And we've all said, "Please..." I mean, I love this stuff. I do keep it all. I have some of it out, though never — this is a total tangent, but I never put out anything with my own image on it. Maybe the drag image, but not as me, because I think it's weird to have a shrine to yourself in your own home: That's my own altar there!

I'm not afraid for people to know me. The book is very frank — it definitely puts a spotlight on my thought process, which is an interesting thing to put out in the world. But I don't have anything to hide, and that is the genuine truth. I just hope that someone can save a little time getting to where I got to. You see what I mean? I hope someone goes, "Well, I've felt this and this and this," and can believe in himself a little bit more. Maybe that helps someone get there faster than I did. ■

== Love Notes ==

Hey lovelies, hopefully life is treating you well. I hope you're getting a day off this Monday, but if not, please remember to take some time another day to rest if you can. Rest is so incredibly important. We need it to be able to recover from the crazyness that is our everyday lives.

We all deal with a lot, and no one knows the extent at which we go through things, so you have to be your own advocate sometimes when it comes to rest. You deserve rest, no matter what you got done today, no matter how much you had the day before.

Sending love and good vibes your way, and a couple extra love notes. You're powerful, and wonderful, and kind, and you deserve the best, lovelies.
