We released the first five episodes for critics, none of whom picked up on the fact it was a love story

Which kind of makes me think critics don't really watch screeners that closely especially during the peak tv era

Coming up in another section for Taika in part 2, as we know whenever Taika goes to any event, someone complains about him, so David sent a very sweet reminder about him (although the second one, I'm not sure if he's calling Taika old or not lol).

For whomever needs to hear it Taika Waititi's a lovely very kind guy btw

It's been eight years since my mum's passing. The last stand-up show I wrote was that year - 2016. It was called Mystic Time Bird, and it was about me trying to get my head around her death and the deeper questions of life and past lives? I explored the possibility of my own past lives being that of many different birds including the magnificent mimicking Lyrebird.

After touring and recording that show I decided to hang up my skinny jeans. It just felt like the right time to leave stage work behind. I was physically and emotionally exhausted and as I was now living in Los Angeles my career had switched focus to TV and Film acting.

Fast forward to 2024..

Now, eight years later, I've decided to return to the old headset mic. Thankfully I toured with my 'best of' 25 Years show last year, so I'm not too dusty in front of crowds. The abilities are still there but it's a different ball game crafting new material. Back in the day I would be on stage five nights a week, at my peak sometimes three gigs a night! This is a stand-up comic at full match fitness, even if he (me) is doing the same pure gold 20 minutes each time. When that's happening regularly the mind can create quicker on the spot and new gags can appear every time I perform. I would come off stage and immediately try and remember new bits so I could add them to my repertoire.

Hey there lovelies. Gosh, I can't believe it's been a week. I have to give it up to the ofmd fan crew cause they do week long reports and oh my god is it exhausting. I tip my hat to you lovely folks for all the work you did for so long with weeklong updates. Tonight, I wish I had more in me so I could properly express myself.

I am so very grateful for all of you wonderful crewmates who have been patient, and kind and supportive over the past week to me. It's been a lot, and I try to keep people up to date, but I also try not to go too crazy cause it's a lots of heavy stuff going on (not just with me, with everyone on a personal level, with the world, etc), so whether you left passing hugs, or a kind word, I just want you to know you are so very incredibly appreciated and it means so much to me.

So please accept so many hugs coming your way from me, and some ghostly forehead kisses.

Sometimes life hits us with some of the absolute craziest shit, and you know what helps get us through it? Each other. A hug, or a kind word makes a world of difference. Someone checking on you, or reminding you to drink water, it can honestly save someone's life/sanity and it kept me going this week. So please know that you make such an amazing difference, in my life and so many others. <3

But also, please remember. if you need support too, reach out, I know sometimes it's hard to ask for help, but we're here for you <3. We only have this one life, and there's no use going through it alone. Love you so much crew, thank you again for being such a wonderful group of kind hearted, compassionate folks. I am so honored to know so many of you <3.
