Stede's sweet "I thought I'd lost you."

I have several questions, first of all how dare you. #OFMDRewind

Who all died when Ed actually looks at Stede for the first time during the walk of shame? I know he's pissed but it felt like the first time I knew everything was going to be ok #OFMDRewind #LubeAsACrew

This show is extremely gay but Anne taking the knife out of Mary's shoulder is the gayest thing I've ever seen

Stede's faith in their love is so unwavering, even when Ed's angry at him

Jim did you have to go that hard over John asking for Archie's name

Adopt Our Crew | #AdoptOurCrew @adoptourcrew · Oct 10

That's love #OFMDRewind #LubeAsACrew

This scene is so beautifully written and acted. Ed and Stede are so human, both of them off the pedestal they'd put each other on and finally having an honest conversation #OFMDRewind #LubeAsACrew

You don't understand, Ed was ready to die believing no one loved him and now here's Stede telling Ed that he can have his whole heart if he wants it, that someone is happy just breathing the same air as him
