AND a final Darby's Daily Doodle for the year!

None of you saw this coming did you?

Thanks for showing your love and support for my doodling escapade.
Happy Holidays to you all and don't worry, season 2 of DDD will come next year. x

The Cryptid Factor will return..

Okay, thanks to the DNA from all the helmets that guy tried on, plus the captured neural pathway memory visuals, we gathered enough data to become him and his two mates.

I love all these accessories we picked up at the gift store too!

Let's go lads. CF4, lead the way back to the Earth dimension!!

So, I was pretty heartbroken to hear that Pop-Pop has been living with a pretty serious health condition. It's so impressive however that he continues to work, and is stumping his medical teams on how he's still kicking ass. If you'd like to learn more, you can visit: The Post.Co.NZ. He's an inspiration. If you're in Australia or Aotearoa, check out his show Dark City: The Cleaner that he was nominated for best actor in the 2024 TV Awards.

Combined, the two events are expected to bring to Providence as many as 100,000 or more visitors over the course of the week for the events in the city.

The comedy event is dubbed "Lil Rhody Laugh Riot: A New Comedy Festival Set to Bring Hilarity to Providence."

"This event isn't just about comedy; it's about creating a space where people from all walks of life can come together and share in the joy of laughter," said Daniel Schwartz, General Manager of The VETS. "Our lineup transcends generations, blending comedy icons like Kevin Hart with hilarious rising stars like Chris Distefano to ensure there's something for everyone. Rhode Island has always been known for its charm and creativity, and this festival will showcase both in the best way possible."

"Anchored at THE VETS and spilling over into satellite venues around the city, including the Providence Performing Arts Center and RI Comedy Connection, this festival will feature four days packed with expertly crafted chaos, witty one-liners, and just enough self-deprecating humor to make us all feel seen with the first wave of headliners," said the organizers.

Scheduled to appear:

Kevin Hart: Thursday, March 27 at 7:30 pm - Providence Performing Arts Center

Michael Blaustein: Friday, March 28 at 7:00 pm - The VETS

Leslie Jones: Saturday, March 29 at 4:00 pm - The VETS

Aziz Ansari: Saturday, March 29 at 7:00 pm - Providence Performing Arts Center

Hannah Berner: Sunday, March 30 at 7:00 pm - The VETS

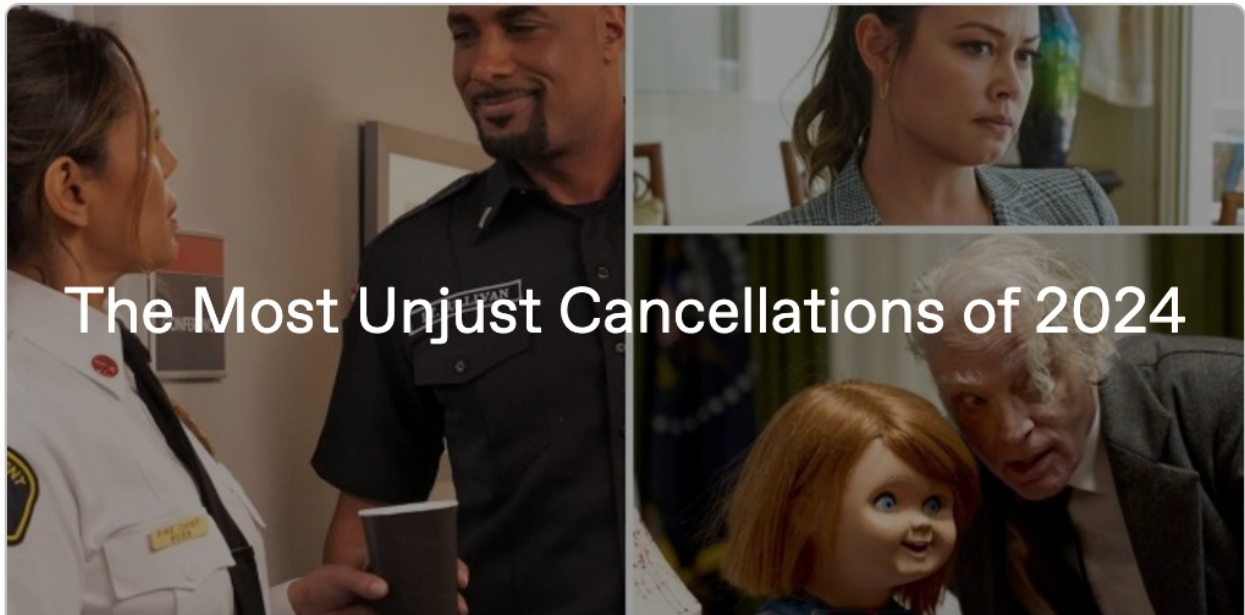

Chris Distefano: Sunday, March 30 at 9:45 pm - The VETS

In other cancellation news, something very odd-- HBO and Max chose not to renew Sesame Street of all things. The good news is, they're looking for a new home! I don't think we've seen the last of Bigbird and Co!

== Love Notes ==

Hey there lovelies. How are you holding up? Are you getting any time off these last couple weeks of the year? I really hope so.

I know this is the time of year where the seasonal depression starts to set in because there's less sunlight (vitamin D is a huge help for our brains!) but also too, this time of year can just be really hard for folks whether it's because of family, or crunch time for work, or feeling lonely and out of touch.

There's a million reasons you could be struggling right now, and I just really want you to know that it's okay. It's okay to struggle (it's also okay if you're doing great!) just don't beat yourself up for going through tough times okay?

You will absolutely get through whatever you're dealing with, even if things are hard. I believe in you, your crew believes in you. Please reach out and ask if you need some love or help, or anything really.

Thinking of you crew, and once again marveling at how kind you are despite all you've been through, and so looking forward to seeing what you do next. Sending so many hugs your way <3
