= Cast & Crew Birthdays =

I've been trying to collect cast and crew birthdays that I could find - Birthday Calendar and there's a few more coming up soon!

- Dec 28th - David Fane
- Dec 30th - Nathan Foad
- Jan 1 - Ruiibo Qian!

If you happen to know more that aren't on the calendar yet, please feel free to reach out to me! I've been trying to add them as I find them but I'm sure I'm missing many! <3 (I'm happy to credit you of course too!)

= Vico Ortiz =

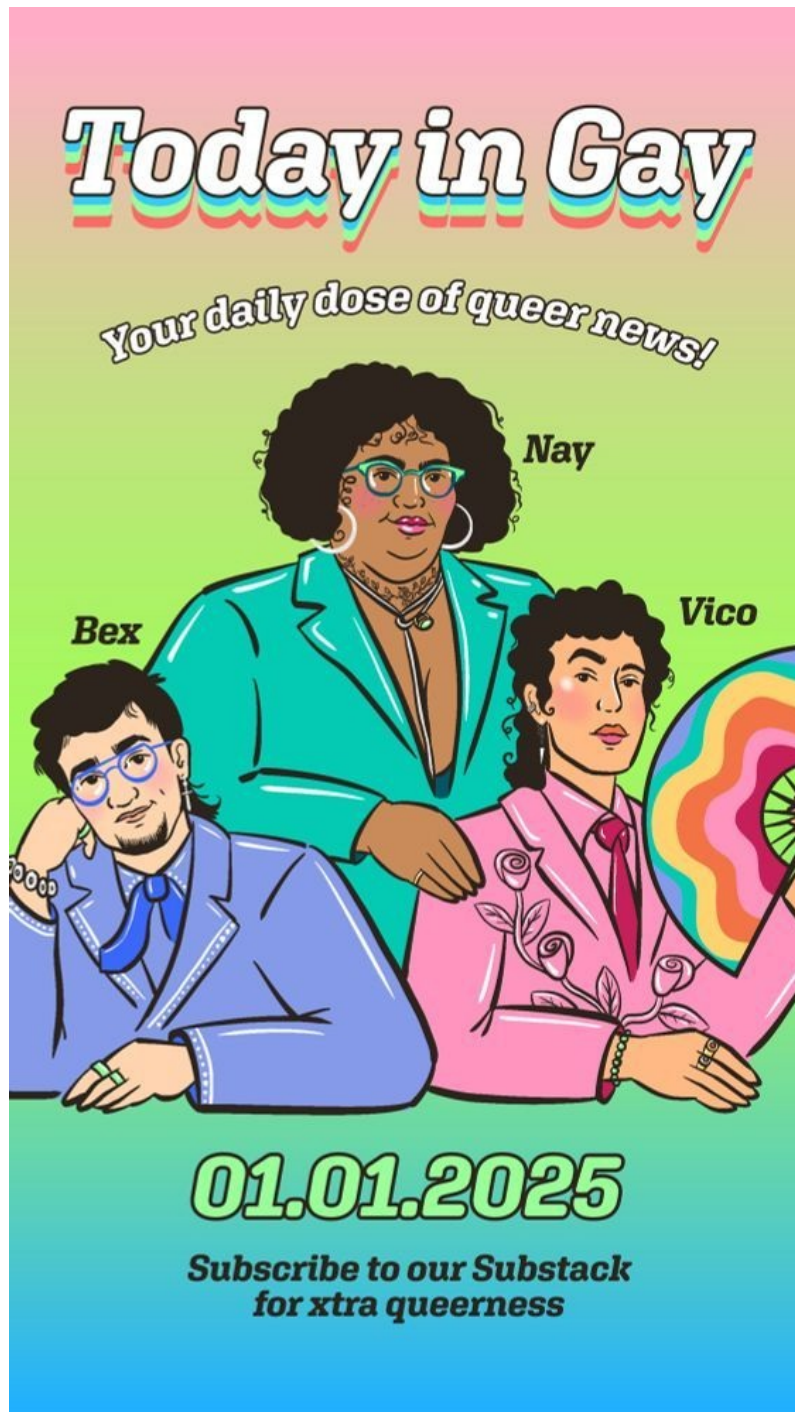

Vico is working on a new project!

Today in Gay is going to be available Monday Through Friday with a daily dose of queer news -- and good queer news! It'll be hosted by several queer icons, Jasmin Savoy Brown, Nay Bever, Vico Ortiz and Bex Taylor-Klaus.

"Lauren Klein joined as Executive Producer, Editor, and Composer. Hannah Nobrega is our behind-the-scenes Researcher and Jax Ko, our Co-Producer and Creative Director, has done all of our visual design. Kalie Chebib is our Social Media Manager and our Supervising Producer is Maritza Navarro. Linh Nguyen keeps us all running as our Executive Assistant! We are all proud members of the LGBTQIA+ community, and we're all here to make your day a little more gay."

= Anapela Polata'ivao =

Our Auntie, Anapela Polata'ivao was selected for Story Camp Aotearoa 2025!

"Story Camp is a residential feature film development lab that fosters craft, voice and vision with a programme designed to meet the development needs of each writer and project. Over the week, the participating writers and their collaborators workshop their feature film projects with exceptional local and international advisors. Congratulations to the filmmakers whose feature film projects will be developed through Story Camp Aotearoa 2025 - The Factory Anapela Polataivao and Vela Manusaute - Co-Writers"

I was a counselor over the summer. I saw firsthand the effect this camp has.

From grief to play to coping strategies, it only took a few days for campers to open up and share feelings they've never shared before.

= Adam Stein =

Our producer and actor, Adam Stein, was spotlighted by Management LA this past week!

"Adam is currently a Consulting Producer on Apple TV+'s THE LAST THING HE TOLD ME. Previous to that, he was an Executive Producer on Max's TOKYO VICE and OUR FLAG MEANS DEATH. Other recent shows include SEE (Apple TV+, Co-Executive Producer), DESIGNATED SURVIVOR (Netflix, Consulting Producer), THE EXORCIST (Fox, Co-Executive Producer) and UNDER THE DOME (CBS, Supervising Producer). He got his start in television on FX's DAMAGES, and began his career as a writer doing features for GQ magazine. He has written pilots for Amazon, ABC, AMC Studios, FX and others. Currently, he's playing Lucky in a production of Waiting for Godot at the @geffenplayhouse through December 21!"

@kryatoson

What word resonates with you the most, and why?

I'm gonna go with versatility, which my computer defines as "the ability to adapt to many different functions or activities." I like to mix it up.

What movie or show has remained a constant source of inspiration?

Apparently I'm stuck in the mid-80s with my most constant inspirations, but Moonlighting (premiered in 1985) and Broadcast News (1987) have been touchstones for what's getting close to FORTY YEARS. Moonlighting, for its exceptional dialogue and formal adventurousness, and Broadcast News for its exquisite character development and expert balancing of tone. Also, I'd like to think of myself as a perfect composite of David Addison and Aaron Altman.

The Tiny Crew Big Raffle team is posting the final numbers for donations to the various non-profits by cast member over the next several days!

- Lindsey Cantrell - Inner City Arts - US $865.80, £312.88, €15, CAD$12.45
- Megan Vertelle - Sheldrick Wildlife Trust - US $901.95, £105, €215, CAD$20

Such wonderful work crew! Well done!

@cryptostein

What current project ignites your passion the most?

I'll be honest, the whole "Tell us why you're passionate about this idea" thing that happens in pitches has always bugged me. As if passion were the only ingredient essential to writing a good story. It can help, sure, but it's not necessary. I imagine Micaela Coel was passionate about telling her story in I May Destroy You, but was Vince Gilligan passionate about the idea of a chemistry teacher becoming a meth dealer? I doubt it; it was just a fucking great story. That said, there's an idea I've had a while based on the (made up) discovery of a private tunnel from the home of Warren Beatty to the Playboy Mansion which I haven't quite cracked.

@cryptostein

What's a song you're listening to on repeat?

Well, if you asked my Apple Replay™ this question, the answer would be George Michael's "Soul Free."

How do you measure success in your creative journey?

When I was younger, I'd see people I knew measuring success in competitive terms — getting the job that other people didn't get, winning an award that other people didn't win. That always felt kinda gross to me. I think the measure is the relationships one builds and maintains. Success, to me, is being someone that other people want to work with and can depend on.

Hey there lovelies! Well getting two out in one day didn't work out, so I will try to make sure I'm catching up with 2 days at time as much as I can over the next few days!

have a very important question to ask you—and that is, have you laughed today? Did you know laughter can reduce anxiety, and stress, stimulate your lungs, heart and muscles? It's actually pretty damn awesome how much a good old fashioned guffaw can make us feel better.

Is there something you know for a fact will make you laugh? (For me it's silly cat videos, or Stede boarding the tiny fisherman's boat in the pilot of the hit series OFMD). Maybe it's stand up comedy— or puns, or dark humor. Whatever it is that tickles your funny bone, I would request that today you go and just partake in some giggles. They can be small, or big, but do something that makes you laugh <3

Below are some things that have given me some giggles in the past. I hope if nothing else they give you a smile. Sending so many hugs lovelies. I'm thinking of you <3
